ADMISSION OF SPECIAL STUDENTS AND HEARERS

A person over twenty-one years of age who has not had the opportunity to complete a regular high school course but who, by reason of special preparation and attainments, may be qualified to pursue certain courses, may be admitted as a special student, though not as a candidate for a degree.

No person less than twenty-one years of age will be admitted to the status of special student, but it is particularly emphasized that attainment of this age does not in itself qualify one for admission to this status. The applicant may be required to pass such examinations, or other tests, as will demonstrate his fitness to pursue with profit the courses selected. A special student is required to take all regular examinations in course and is expected to do at least average work; failure to live up to this expectation will result in his elimination by his dean. A special student may ultimately become a candidate for a degree by completing the admission requirements of the division in which he is enrolled.

In general, a person who is able to satisfy the requirements for admission as a regular student will not be admitted as a special student.

Blank forms on which to make application will be furnished upon request.

Special students are not admitted to the Schools of Journalism, Law, or Medicine.

With the consent of the Registrar and the instructors concerned, students may be admitted to any division as hearers. Hearers must be registered and pay fees, but are not required to take examinations and receive no credit toward a degree.

DIRECTIONS FOR NEW STUDENTS

Entrance

As a first step in securing admission to the University, all prospective students, both undergraduate and graduate, should file an application with the Registrar. Blank forms for application will be furnished by the Registrar on request. It is imperative also that new students (those entering the University of Missouri for the first time) send their complete credentials to the Registrar in advance of the semester, or summer session, in which they wish to enroll. In the case of a student who has attended college elsewhere, complete credentials include an official transcript of record and a certificate of honorable dismissal from each college or university attended. In the case of one who has not attended or completed college work elsewhere, credentials consist of a high school record certified by the proper official of the school in which the credits were earned. Blank forms for such certificates are
